

Topic

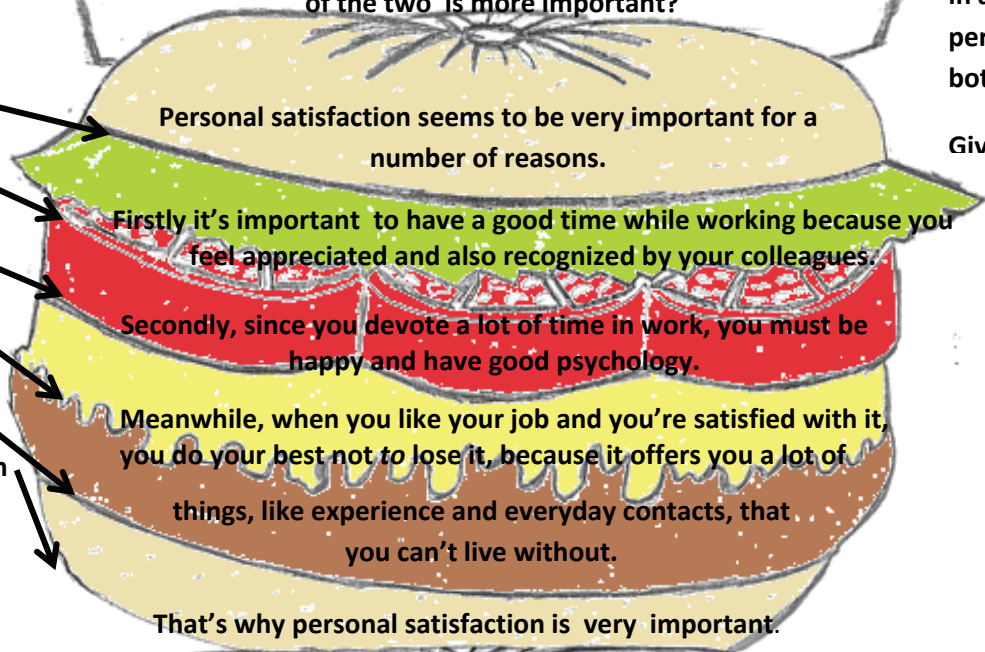

A job offers you both money and personal satisfaction. But, which of the two is more important?

Which is more important in a job?: Money or personal satisfaction or both?

Give your reasons.

INGREDIENTS

- The top bun
- The lettuce
- The tomato
- The cheese
- The burger
- The bottom bun

Personal satisfaction seems to be very important for a number of reasons.

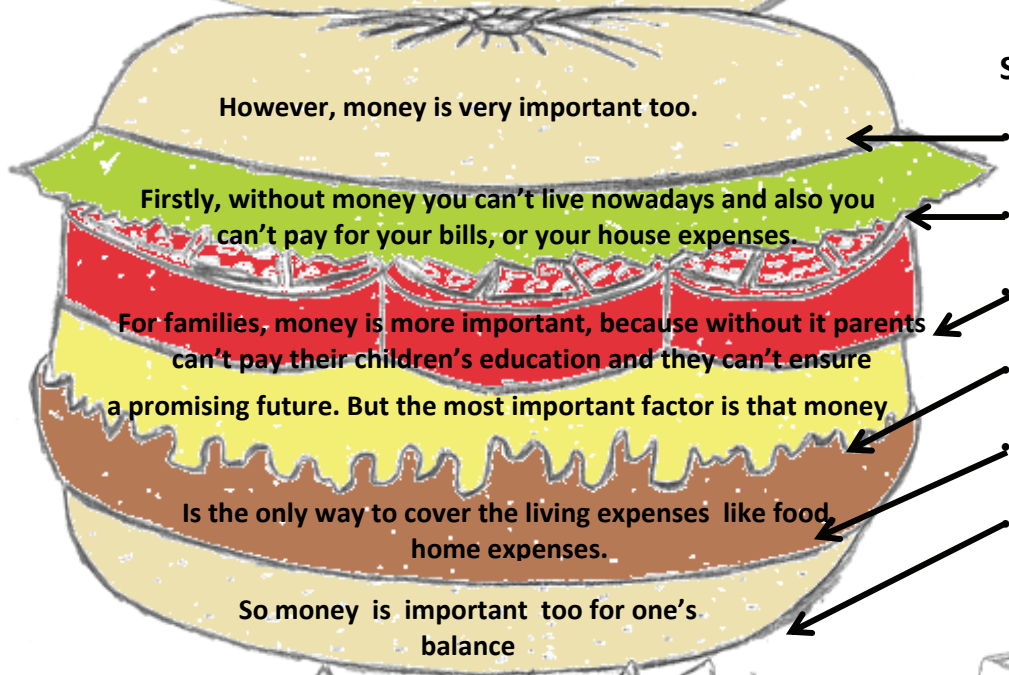

Firstly it's important to have a good time while working because you feel appreciated and also recognized by your colleagues.

Secondly, since you devote a lot of time in work, you must be happy and have good psychology.

Meanwhile, when you like your job and you're satisfied with it, you do your best not to lose it, because it offers you a lot of things, like experience and everyday contacts, that you can't live without.

That's why personal satisfaction is very important.

STRUCTURE

However, money is very important too.

Firstly, without money you can't live nowadays and also you can't pay for your bills, or your house expenses.

For families, money is more important, because without it parents can't pay their children's education and they can't ensure a promising future. But the most important factor is that money is the only way to cover the living expenses like food, home expenses.

So money is important too for one's balance

The topic sentence

The first point

The second point

The third point

The last point

The closing sentence

To sum up, we understand that both money and personal satisfaction are equally important for every employee. The best thing would be to find a job that you like and offers you a lot of money.

MANDILARA CHRISTIANA

design K.Tatsis '14